

Multi-Purpose Building opens in Hashan Kehk

Celebration marks special occasion for District 2

By Annie Gutierrez
Gila River Indian News

It was an emotional sight for District 2 residents when they saw community elders Everett Kisto and Elizabeth Pablo cut the ribbon of the long awaited Hashan Kehk Multi-Purpose Building, Nov. 22.

Tears of joy and smiles were among many faces that came out to celebrate the grand opening of the new service center. The evening ceremony began with a welcome from District 2 resident Jivik Siiki, followed by a traditional blessing from Tim Terry Jr. and the posting of the colors from Haskell Osife-Antone Post 51. The Hashan

Kehk basket dancers and singers also performed for guests and had people out of their seats dancing to a few social songs around the gym. Afterward, guests enjoyed food provided by St. Anthony's Church and music by chicken scratch band Two Rivers.

Hashan Kehk staff gave curious spectators a tour around the new two-story center. The uniquely light green colored building is comprised of administration offices, a fitness room, and gymnasium with an elevated indoor track. It also has a teen room, a large area with two pool tables, an education room equipped with computers, arts and crafts room, and a large kitchen that will be used to serve homebound meals daily. The outdoor patios also have two grills ready for chumuth making.

Elders were also pleased to see their long wait for an Elder Center was well worth it. They can now feel relaxed in their new home-style center on the first floor complete with a lounge, bathroom, kitchen and healthcare room nearby.

"We are a small community," says District 2 Coordinator and resident, Jeanne Gomez.

"We wanted it to be functional with our administration, recreation center and elder center...The community has been working on getting a multi-purpose building since late '99," she said.

The District 2 Service Center finally has a home after the many changes over the years. The original service center was an old

Six new Gila River Police Department officers were sworn in as they recited the oath to uphold the law, which echoed throughout the courtroom of the tribal courts building in Sacaton, Nov. 24. Lt.

Gov. Lewis welcomed the new officers, who were accompanied by family and friends. He emphasized the importance of their duty to protect the Community, acknowledging the sacrifices associated with serving in the line of duty.

Police Chief Kathleen

Kirkham told the new officers, "Get to know the people that you're serving, and build those relationships."

In closing her remarks, she said, "I want you to work hard, work smart, find joy in your work, because you get to do [good] for a living."

Angelia Allison is sworn in as a Community Council representative on Dec. 3 in Sacaton.

Newly Elected District 4 Council Member Takes Office

By GRIN Staff
Gila River Indian News

Angelia Allison, who won the District 4 Community Council special election, was sworn in as the newest Council representative.

Allison was given the oath of office by Chief Judge Anthony Hill at the first regular monthly meeting of the Community Council at the Governance Center in Sacaton on Dec 3. She defeated former District 4 Community Council Representative Darrell Gerlaugh on Nov. 4 with 54.04 percent of the vote. Community Council certified the District 4 special election results at the Nov. 19 regular monthly meeting.

Her sister is current District 4 representative and former lieutenant governor, Jennifer Allison.

Pima Express thank you for fulfilling his wishes in adding him to your busy schedule!

It was amazing to see so many people come together and show the love and assistance to help us through this difficult time. Bert will truly be missed by all the people who knew, worked and came in contact with him, he was just a great guy who loved talking, laughing, joking around with everyone and he just loved teasing the little ones.

In the event we may have not listed all who assisted, please be assured we appreciate everyone who came to help our families.

In Loving Memory Carter Lee Jones

Our beloved Husband, Daddy and Father-In-Law it seems like only yesterday we laid you to rest but it will be a year on December 20, 2014 when God called you home. A big part of us went with you as you played a big role in our lives. We have cried our million tears and more. Everything around us reminds us of you. It is very hard to go where we as a family use to go without shedding our tears.

We are told time will heal our broken hearts, but no one knows when that will be. Our home was full of laughter, joking and loving one another, but today its not the same. In the midnight hour when all is quiet, I just wish we could talk to you or hear your laughter and silly jokes. All we do is remember and at times it brings a smile.

These upcoming holidays are the hardest, we pretend we are okay but on the inside we hurt and at times we cry. You were such an awesome person, quiet but if only people really knew you it would be a different thing.

The year is coming and we know we must let go, as God said "Blessed are those that mourn for they shall be comforted" we have to rely on our faith and as God's word says, "Joy comes in the morning", we just don't know when but one day we will be able to smile and know that you are in God's hands. You have fought the good fight.

Time has passed but your memories will live on forever in our hearts.

With our Love,

Donna Kisto-Jones

Thank You

THANK YOU to all the voters that voted me back into my current position as Associate Judge and having the confidence that I will continue to hear my hearings to the best of my ability. This is a challenging job however, it is also an appreciative job. There are so many things to learn, and every day is something different but again these are the things that I do that allow me to appreciate helping my community you the people of Gila River and the Urban Indian Community as well. I most of all thank my heavenly father for allowing me to be in this position as I walk close beside Him every day and he guides me. I do not lean upon my own understanding but I allow God to work through me. I will continue to see that justice prevails and do things to the best of my ability.

Thank you again and God Bless You all.

Donna Kisto-Jones

Gone, But Never Forgotten

The family of Josephine Ventura-Yesk would like to thank all those in attendance for helping us celebrate Josephine's life. Josephine was a bright, shining light in this world, and we take solace in the fact that she will live in our hearts and memories.

THANK YOU to family, friends, and Gila River community for extending so much love and support to our family.

Letter to Community

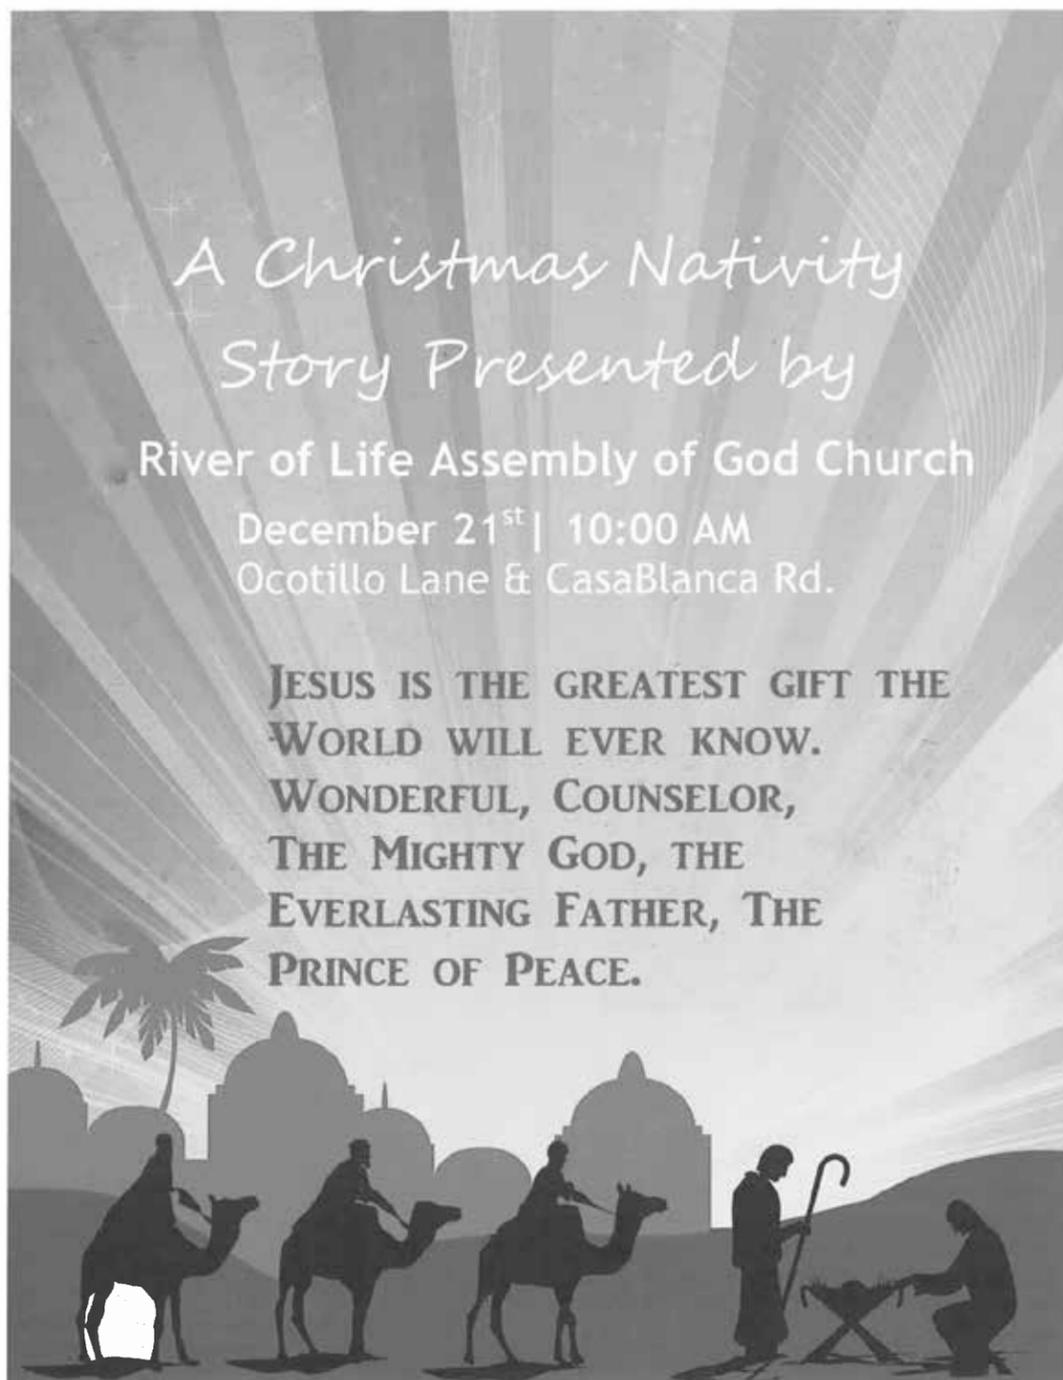

This is my letter for the MATRIX program from O.A.S.I.S. and the group.

I have lived out my 22 years. I had been who I was, Afraid, lonely, angry, embarrassed, nervous, and disappointed, but how my years came to this is remarkable. I could have been on either side of our stories, being a councilor, intern, custodian, receptionist, user. When entering the program I have had an opened mind and I had done affirmations to come into the group with something to say. It didn't feel uncomfortable until I heard the people who I had seen come in. I was again afraid, nervous. Disappointment came when I would look around the room and see the ones that came here that have no choice, they've worked, sacrificed, provided, and they had choices, and so did I, so I was looking at it through another side. Trying to use whatever empathy I had. My energy was the same; it was put into getting the information and stories I had heard and learn from them. The night group felt like class and my experiences where the lessons and my teachings. Even though I came in for myself, I was also there for others. The room became a second home. Nights sometimes filled with laughter, made it easier to surrender my problems of who I was, but still as said they are there till you can accept it and change the way you feel about it. It could be forgiver, but it won't work unless you feel something taken from it. Afraid to release myself was hard, but I understand it has got to be done by me for me. I would like to end this by releasing my positive energy out to the negative spaces.

CORRECTIONS

The thank you letter from the Bert Rhodes family was supposed to run in our November issue. We apologize to the family for the oversight.

Gila River Youth Represents Community at D.C. Honors Event

Taylor Antone stands with Richard Rossi, Founder and Executive Director of the National Academy of Future Physicians and Medical Scientists.

By Christopher Lomahquahu
Gila River Indian News

Taylor Antone, District 6, had the honor of representing the Gila River Indian Community at the Congress of Future Medical Leaders in Washington, D.C. Nov. 14-16.

The Cesar Chavez High School junior from Co-op Village was nominated by her school and Dr. Connie Mariano of the National Academy of Future Physicians, the CFML host organization.

Taylor attended the three-day congress with high school honors students from across the country to hear from physicians and researchers in the medical field.

The NAFF puts on the event to encourage students to go into the medical field.

Students networked with professionals and representatives from academic institutions recruiting promising high school students.

Many of the leading authorities in the area of science and medicine, Nobel Prize winners and National Medal of Science winners met with the students to answer their questions.

In a prepared statement, Richard Rossi, Executive Director of the host organization, said, "This is a crucial time in America when we need more doctors and medical scientists who are even better prepared for a future that is changing exponentially."

For Taylor, it wasn't luck that she was nominated to represent the state of Arizona and the Community at the congress. Taylor's nomination is accredited to her exceptional academic performance and ability to demonstrate leadership potential in the classroom.

Dr. Mariano sent a letter to Taylor announcing her invitation.

A retired U.S. Navy Rear Admiral and former Physician to the President of the United States for nine years, Dr. Mariano has contributed most of her time to aspiring students.

The opportunity to attend the congress was an honor for Taylor. "Just the thought of being recognized for my academic accomplishments and being selected to attend the Congress was really flattering and gratifying," she said.

Her parents, Glorietta and Willard Antone, were equally proud of her.

Her father Willard spoke about the progress their daughter has made throughout her school years. "Taylor has always been really good with academics, we are really proud of her, one of the highlights of her high school years is seeing her go off to Washington, D.C.," he said.

"I was so ecstatic that our daughter was selected to attend the Congress that I cried tears of joy and pride," said Glorietta.

As for her plans after graduation, offers from several universities have been coming her way, including from Ivy League schools. Taylor's dad said she has always been interested in the medical field, but is not sure which specialty to focus on.

"She is still undecided, but hasn't really set in stone whether she wants to be a surgeon, pediatrician, or in the medical science field," said Willard.

With assistance from the office of Gov. Gregory Mendoza and District 7 Coordinator Terrence B. Evans, they were able to travel to the Congress. In gratitude for the help, Glorietta said, "Many heartfelt thanks go out to all that made this experience possible."

"Throughout the three day congress, I had the opportunity to meet and begin networking with other scholars from every state across the country," said Taylor.

To make the experience even more unique, students watched a live broadcast of a surgery from Chicago, Ill., while being able to ask questions at the same time.

In summarizing her experience attending the event, Taylor said, "It was amazing how advanced the medical field is becoming and how much we as future medical leaders will help change the world through science."

"I was able to meet and mingle with Nobel Prize winners and renowned physicians and surgeons of the medical and science field," said Taylor.

District 5 Youth Elected Co-President of NCAI Youth Commission

By Mikhail Sundust
Gila River Indian News

Tyler Owens, District 5, was elected as the 2014-2016 female co-president of the National Congress of American Indians Youth Commission Oct. 30, thus adding a national title to her already impressive resume of elected appointments.

"I'm looking forward to working with the nine other youth that were elected to Youth Commission," said Owens over the phone. "It seems like we have a great group and it seems like we can make a lot of change in the next two years."

The Youth Commission is made up of 10 young people from various tribes around the nation, including members from the White Mountain Apache Tribe, Pokagon Band of Potawatomi, the Muscogee Nation, the Aleut, the Mashpee Wampanoag and the Ho-Chunk Nation.

Owens said there is a lot of teamwork and equality within the group so every one of them contributes and is heard, which makes her job as co-president less about pulling teeth or pushing an agenda and more about opening lines of communication. "Pretty much my duties are just to run meetings," she said. "We all have the same goals...and different achievements that we want to make."

One of the changes she and her peers would like to incite is to increase the visibility of the NCAI Youth Commission in the larger congress and the public.

"That was something we really wanted to do," she said, "present at the general assembly so then people can see what exactly [the youth] have to say."

To achieve this, they plan to organize a specifically youth-centric portion of the annual NCAI conference that is more interactive and engaging and they will reach out to tribal communities, encouraging them to send more Native youth interested in politics.

Another thing the group would like to do is use their political influence to help those in need in Indian Country.

The Youth Commission has its sights set on the Oglala Lakota Nation and helping that tribe's juvenile detention center fire up the educational program it has been lacking for years due to poor funding.

"One of the guys, Brian Barlow (Cherokee Nation), [said] that he wanted to see if there was any way that we could lobby on behalf of that in order to get funds."

The Akimel O'odham/Pee-Posh Youth Council sponsored Owens at the 2014 NCAI Convention in Atlanta, Georgia. Alex Pablo, Adrienne Dixon and Nathaniel Talamantez of the AOP-PPYC also attended.

Owens, a former Miss Gila River First Attendant, former AOPPYC president, the sitting Inter-Tribal Youth Council of Arizona planning committee chair and sitting AOPPYC vice president is excited about her time with NCAI and is also looking forward to a Washington, D.C. internship with the Department of Justice next spring.

"It's going to be Jan. 18 to March 15 next year. During the 8-week internship, I'll be sitting in on hearings about pieces of legislation [related to] Indian Country and seeing how the Department of Justice operates." Specifically, she will be working in the Office of Tribal Justice within the DOJ.

She is excited to learn about and witness first-hand the debate over the Keystone XL pipeline: how it would affect tribes, the land that it cuts through and the economy.

"I'm really thankful for [this] opportunity but now it's a matter of raising money." Owens has a GoFundMe account to raise money to help her pay for living expenses in D.C. Anyone can support her at www.gofundme.com/i2wv68; search "Tyler's DC Internship."

Here are some regular updates on the on-going issues pertaining to the Gila River Indian Community.

FEIS Comment Period Extended to Dec. 27

The South Mountain Freeway Final Environmental Impact Statement comment period has been extended to Dec. 27 after the Federal Highway Administration and Arizona Department of Transportation issued an amendment to the EIS, adding 10 comments and official responses that were left out from the Draft EIS public comment period. A Record of Decision on the proposed freeway is still expected in early 2015. In a press release, the Gila River Indian Community Communications & Public Affairs Director Zuzette Kisto said, "Of the more than 8,000 comments received during the public review period for the South Mountain Freeway [DEIS], it was noted that 10 comments submitted in 2013 were inadvertently not relayed to the study team," but they have now been incorporated into the FEIS.

The neglected comments, or errata, can be viewed at Service Centers throughout the Gila River Indian Community as well as the Ira Hayes Library and Communications & Public Affairs Office in the Governance Center.

SRPMIC Lands Naming Rights for US Airways Center

U.S. Airways Arena will be known as Talking Stick Resort Arena, named after the Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community's gaming and vacation enterprise.

"Like Talking Stick Resort, this venue has become an iconic destination for entertainment in Arizona," said Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community President Diane Enos. "We have a shared commitment with the Phoenix Suns in building a sense of community in the Valley and we are honored to help them provide a place for so many people to gather and celebrate."

The facility, home to the Phoenix Suns, Phoenix Mercury and Arizona Rattlers, as well as a popular concert venue, has been around since 1992, when it was originally named America West Arena. The moniker was changed to U.S. Airways Arena in 2006, but the airline announced in September that it would not renew its annual naming rights contract with the facility after it merged with American Airlines and moved its headquarters from Tempe to Ft. Worth, Texas.

Visitors can expect to see "Talking Stick Resort Arena" posted everywhere around the facility and a new sign atop the building by the start of the Phoenix Suns 2015-2016 season. Terms of the deal were not disclosed upon announcement.

"This is an exciting day for Phoenix, and another example of what an incredible partner the Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community is for all of us," said Phoenix Mayor Greg Stanton.

The deal between SRPMIC and the Phoenix Suns marks the second significant naming rights deal in the Valley between a major sports team and a local Native American tribe in recent months.

Earlier this year, the Gila River Indian Community agreed to a naming rights deal with the owners of Jobing.com Arena, home of the Arizona Coyotes, to rename it Gila River Arena.

The Ak-Chin Indian Community, a third of the four O'otham sister tribes in southern Arizona (including SRPMIC, GRIC and the Tohono O'odham Nation), has a naming rights deal too and lays claim to the Ak-Chin Pavilion, originally Desert Sky Pavilion.

Keystone XL Pipeline Bill

The U.S. Senate Nov. 18 failed to pass a bill that would have approved the proposed Keystone XL pipeline. In the end, the bill fell just one vote short, getting 59 of the 60 it needed for approval and 41 against.

Tribes such as the Rosebud Sioux have been vocally opposed to the proposed pipeline, which would carry tar sands oil from Alberta, Canada to the Gulf of Mexico, cutting across Nebraska, South Dakota and Montana and through Native American lands.

Last week, after the House of Representatives passed a bill in favor of the pipeline, Rosebud Sioux President Cyril Scott called Congressional approval of the pipeline an "act of war against our people."

Primary concerns of opponents of the pipeline include environmental damage, health impacts, financial strains and the desecration of tribal lands.

Furthermore, Scott lamented the lack of government-to-government interaction. "The U.S. government does not consult us," he said to the online news site Think Progress.

The Senate vote, however, stopped the oil route in its tracks. For now, it seems, the pipeline will not be built.

A'AGA:

Something to be Told

By Billy Allen

In a galaxy far, far away (actually my job before I retired) I fielded questions concerning our land and people. Do you have an Indian name? Why do you work since you get money from the casinos? Why is there a bridge over a dry river bed? What happened to the river?

I would explain that our akimel still runs, but dams prevent it from flowing downstream. The water now flows in canals to the fields. Back to my old job again—I was envious of Gila River Indian Community employees who got an extra holiday in December (Sko:mag or Gray): Water Day on December 10th. Water Day commemorates the settlement of a decades long court battle to regain water from our river.

Tribal member, Rod Lewis, who served as general counsel of the Gila River Indian Community, led the community's negotiations that finally resulted in the Arizona Water Rights Settlements Act of 2004 (Public Law 108-451). The Arizona Water Rights Settlements Act was signed by President Bush in 2004 and completed on Dec. 10, 2007. The fight for our water rights never waned and this water-rights settlement returned our rightful share. Mr. Lewis leaned on the shoulders and listened to the stories of the elders to guide him. S-ape Rod.

This time of year, we start to think about gifts and resolutions. Water is a gift to treasure. Henry David Thoreau, an American author/naturalist/philosopher who influenced Gandhi and Martin Luther King, Jr. wrote: "Water is the only drink for a wise man." Maybe a healthy resolution we could all make is to become a little wiser, to drink more water. This could also be seen as a gift of time to our community, for we can never have too many GRIC elders.

In a recent Arizona Republic article, Dr. Oz and Dr. Roizen warned against diet drinks. The article stated 59 percent of Americans sip diet drinks. I think it is higher among Native people. Artificial sweeteners, a key ingredient of such drinks, have been found to cause health problems. Diet drinks do not help us lose weight. Studies show they lead to weight gain. Bottled tea, iced coffee and energy drinks are not good for our waistline, heart, and blood sugar. However going back to drinking regular soda is not a good option either. The body changes may not show up immediately, but given time, it will be a losing battle. In the past our people never went to battle with the thought of losing, why start now? The Navajo Nation is going to start a 2% tax on junk food next year, and soda will be one of the taxed items. They'll have to see if hitting people in the wallet to try and stem the tide of diabetes washing over them, as with us, will work. On reservation or off, taxed or not taxed, even though I was not a math teacher in my former job, I can figure out that a $2 a day soda habit would cost me over $700 a year. (I don't want my per cap to go for that!)

Mr. Lewis could tell us that "use it or lose it" is a key principle in water rights policy. So here we are now. We've regained some of our historical water rights, but when it comes to us, our bodies, many of us are not using it (water), and we are losing it – it being our health, our money, our longevity.

This Water Day, what if everyone in the community became a Water Warrior? What if we honored our history, and saluted the success of water negotiations, by drinking only water that day? What if success on that day rippled to the next day, the next week? In closing, "May the force (water) be with you."

One of the toy drive drop-off points for the sixth annual Tribal Recreation Toy Drive at the Gila River Fire Department Fire Station No. 423 on the corner of Blue Bird and Seed Farm Roads in Sacaton.

By Mikhail Sundust
Gila River Indian News

The Tribal Recreation Department is gearing up its sixth annual holiday Toy Drive, which will run through Dec. 17.

“The Toy Drive is an effort to get toys for the children that are in...Tribal Social Services, RPY (Residential Programs for Youth) and the Domestic Violence Shelter,” said Recreation Coordinator Merlena Calabaza.

However, they also donate to the Urban Members Association and low-income families with the Department of Community Housing, and they help the Head Start program get toys through the Toys for Tots Foundation.

The Toy Drive has become a staple of the holiday season in Gila River and a lot of effort goes into making it possible.

“It’s not just our department,” said Calabaza, “We have the whole [of] Public Safety behind it and the casinos, the Sheraton, GRICUA, Sand & Gravel, DCH.”

To collect all the toys, Recreation has placed drop-off boxes at all of the fire departments in the Community, at the police department in Sacaton and at GRICUA.

“On the 18th, we’ll have a big ol’ wrapping party to wrap all the gifts,” said Calabaza. It will be at the Sheraton, who is donating time and space.

When it’s all said and done, hundreds of toys go to girls and boys on Santa’s nice list.

“It’s fun...it’s in the spirit of giving,” said Calabaza. “It’s good to see these kids [and] just to put a smile on their faces.”

It is that time of year when everywhere you go people are talking about the holidays! Some families are buying gifts, decorating trees, and putting up lights! However you choose to celebrate during this holiday season, we encourage you and your family to remember this time of year can be about your family and your traditions. Having family traditions builds bonds among family members and creates a sense of belonging for everyone. Having fun together can be the best gift any family can give or receive. Children enjoy looking forward to annual family traditions. That anticipation for a fun family activity will create a sense of joy and excitement in children and yes even adults! Traditions can be anything you do together as a family each year. It can be something passed down from elders in your family or it can be something simple like baking cookies together. Each tradition your family has is special and one that will bring family members together, and will create fun family memories. If your family already has traditions this holiday season then enjoy them and know that you are creating opportunities for wonderful memories as a family. If you are looking for new family traditions below are a few fun activities you can do at home with your family. Enjoy!

Simple holiday family fun!

- * Eat a red and green dinner!
- * Make Christmas cards!
- * Read a Christmas story by flashlight.
- * Make a treat and take to the neighbors.
- * Call grandmothers and sing a Christmas song.

Make Reindeer brownies!

Supplies: Brownie mix (check required ingredients on box). Pretzels, frosting, and mini m&ms. Bake brownies, cut out cooled brownies into triangles. Use the pretzels for reindeer antlers, brown m&ms for eyes, and a red m&m for the nose. Use frosting as the “glue.” YUMMY!

Blackwater Youth Attends White House Tribal Nations Conference

Darius Jackson before the podium at the White House Tribal Nations Conference hosted by President Barack Obama, Dec. 3.

By Mikhail Sundust
Gila River Indian News

The 2014 White House Tribal Nations Conference placed heavy emphasis on the development of Native American youth and education in Indian Country.

“The United States shares a sacred bond with our Native nations,” said Pres. Barack Obama at the conference. “We have a sacred responsibility to all our young people, including Native youth.”

The White House Tribal Nations Conference every year invites tribal leaders from all 566 federally recognized tribes to convene and dialogue with the President and members of his cabinet about important issues in Indian Country. It is a tradition Obama started his first year in office and has continued ever since.

High School Senior nominated by Gov. Gregory Mendoza to represent GRIC

This was the first year that the White House invited Youth Ambassadors from those nations.

In June, Obama and his wife Michelle visited the Standing Rock Sioux Tribe Nation in North Dakota. There, he met a handful of youth from that community and learned first hand about the struggles they face every day, from witnessing drug use to the high suicide-rate in Indian Country to the lack of support in their schools.

“And the truth is those young people were representative of young people in every tribe, in every reservation in America,” said the president in his speech. “And too many face the same struggles that those Lakota teenagers face. They’re not sure that this country has a place for them. Every single one of them deserves better than they’re getting right now. They are our children, and they deserve the chance to achieve their dreams.”

Obama sounded informed and sincere in his speech, in which he outlined several initiatives his administration is implementing to help Native youth and Native communities.

“[T]o cultivate the next generation of Native leaders, we’re creating a national network called Generation Indigenous, to remove the barriers that stand between young people and opportunity. And the first class of “Gen-I” Youth Ambassadors are here today,” he said.

One of those Native youth fortunate to represent his community at the conference was Darius Jackson of Gila River’s District 1, who sat in the first row, feet away from where Pres. Obama and Vice Pres. Joe Biden gave their speeches.

“We got to meet Vice President Joe Biden...I got to meet Eric Holder as well, the Attorney General. It was really inspirational, meeting them, knowing that [they’re the] top leaders of our country. It was amazing.”

He also got to meet Pres. Obama, briefly. “I actually got to shake his hand. I was so happy... He’s the leader of the country and I got to meet him and shake his hand, twice.”

GRIC Gov. Gregory Mendoza nominated Jackson to be a Youth Ambassador at the conference. He was chosen based on his excellent academic record, his community and school involvement and his comfort with public speaking.

“Darius is a special young man whose talents, passion for his community, and desire to promote change are truly extraordinary for a person of his age. The positive impact that Darius has already made begins at school and with his extracurricular activities,” wrote Mendoza in his nomination letter.

Jackson is the president of the National Honor Society at Coolidge High School, vice president of student government and plays varsity basketball. He is also a District 1 representative and former vice president of the Akimel O’odham/Pee-Posh Youth Council.

Last month, the high school senior got accepted to Arizona State University, where he will start next fall. He is going to study exercise and wellness.

“I want to take that back to our community,” he said, “and learn how we can help the people in my community be more active. And with the Affordable Care Act, I want to know how that affects my community.”

Near the end of the day, Obama announced plans to reauthorize the Native American Housing Assistance and Self-Determination Act, help tribes struggling with domestic violence, promote economic growth in tribal communities, and to support reservation schools.

“Next year, we will hold the first White House Tribal Youth Gathering,” the president announced. “We’re going to invest in connecting tribal schools to high-speed Internet. We’re going to fill them with the best teachers and principals. We’re going to make sure that children and families get the support they need to stay secure and healthy.”

“And the Department of Education has launched a new initiative with a handful of tribes called the Native Youth Community Projects. The idea is, we’re working with tribes to give schools and students intensive support across a range of areas – from nutrition, to mental health, to culturally relevant curriculum.

“We know that learning about the history and language and traditions of one’s people can make a huge difference in a child’s education. And in the long run, if it’s done right, it can help more of them be prepared for college and careers. We want to help make that happen.”

Multi-Purpose Building

adobe building on Hashan Kehk and Sacaton Roads but was relocated after being declared condemned in 2005. The service center was moved to a small modular with an event center nearby. The small space housed many of the service center’s summer feeding programs, afterschool youth programs and recreation activities and dinners. Now that the new multi-purpose building is in full operation, the service center has enough space to continue its activities, especially for the youth.

“This building is going to be really good for them,” said Gomez, as she watched young children tour the facility. “It’s going to benefit them. We have our Hashan Kehk Teen Club and afterschool program. We [also] got computer donations from the MIS department – now the youth can get on the internet and type their homework. It’s just great.”

The distinctive design of the building was the idea of former Community Services manager Berdette Morago, who admired the basic layout and indoor track of the Morris K. Udall Recreation Center in Tucson. Members worked together with architects from Orcutt Winslow to design the 38,000 square foot facility. Architects also restored and resized old sepia-toned photos submitted by community members and displayed them on the wall of the staircase.

During the excavating phase, architects discovered buried items in the building area. The community held a special ceremony to rebury the items in the back of the building. “There were several villages that were here. They had unearthed a lot of whole pottery and black dirt from the fires. We talked with Cultural Resources [Department] and they dated it back to the late 1800s,” explained Gomez about the Hashan Kehk discovery.

Many tribal officials, staff and residents expressed their gratitude through speech to individuals and departments who made the building and the funding for the road to the facility possible. They also voiced their optimism about the $10 million facility that will be utilized to serve the needs of members residing in the Hashan Kehk community.

Nearly 500 people attended the grand opening and an overjoyed Gomez expressed her feelings saying, “There was so many people who came together to get us funding and helped us get this built. A lot of people came out to our opening and we hope more people come out and use the facility. I know it’s not just for us here in District 2, it’s for the whole community.”

PUBLIC NOTICE

United States Department of the Interior
BUREAU OF INDIAN AFFAIRS
PIMA AGENCY
P.O. Box 8
Sacaton, Arizona 85147

The Bureau of Indian Affairs (B IA) Pima Agency has received a request El Paso Natural Gas Company (EPNG) who has a current Grant of Easement for Right-of-Way (ROW) that extends approximately 80 miles (covering approximately 448 acres) on Allotted and Tribal lands within the Gila River Indian Community (GRIC) and is utilized for the operation and maintenance of natural gas pipelines set to expire on December 14, 2014. EPNG has applied for a new ROW for the existing natural gas pipelines and facilities, as well as areas along the pipelines that are identified for maintenance access and facilities improvements. Due to the new ROW on Allotted and Tribal lands, the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA), Pima Agency, determined that an Environmental Assessment (EA) would be necessary to address potential impacts resulting from the proposed project in accordance with the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA). The EA documents the existing conditions and potential impacts for approving the grant, denying the grant (no action alternative), and the cumulative effects that approving the grant may have with other planned projects. The two alternatives analyzed in the EA for this project are: 1) The No Action Alternative (not approving the grant of easement for the ROW; 2) Proposed Action Alternative (approval of the grant of easement for the ROW). Based on the November 2014 El Paso Natural Gas Grant of Easement of Right of Way Final Environmental Assessment (EA), it has been determined that the proposed action will not have a significant impact on the quality of the human environment; therefore, an Environmental Impact Statement is not required. This is a public notice of availability of a Finding of No Significant Impact (FONSI) and the Final EA for review. The FONSI and the Final EA will be publicly available for 15 days beginning November 13, 2014, and ending November 28, 2014. To obtain a copy of the FONSI and the Final EA, please contact Ms. Cecilia Martinez of the Bureau of Indian Affairs Pima Agency at:

Ms. Cecilia Martinez, Superintendent
Bureau of Indian Affairs, Pima Agency
P.O. Box 8
Sacaton, Arizona 85147
Telephone Number: (520) 562-3326
Fax: (520) 562-3543

Please note: This FONSI is a finding on environmental effects, not a decision to proceed with an action; therefore, it cannot be appealed. Title 25, Code of Federal Regulations, Part 2.7 requires a 30-day appeal period after the decision to proceed with the action is made before the action may be implemented. Appeal information will be made publicly available when the decision to proceed is made.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF CASA BLANCA COMMUNITY SCHOOL BOARD ELECTIONS ON DECEMBER 16, 2014

The Casa Blanca Community School is pleased to announce that it will be holding an election on December 16, 2014 to fill three (3) seats on its Board of Trustees. The EIS process, which includes both the Draft EIS and Final EIS, was conducted in accordance with the National Environmental Policy Act and has identified a preferred alternative route for this freeway corridor - running east and west along Pecos Road and then north and south between 55th and 63rd avenues, connecting with Interstate 10 on each end. It also formally documents the analysis of potential impacts associated with the proposed freeway.

The Draft EIS was published in April 2013 and made available for a 90-day comment period, including a public hearing held on May 21, 2013. Responses to public and agency comments on the Draft EIS are provided in Volume III of the Final EIS. Ten additional comments inadvertently unrecorded in the Final EIS, along with responses to those comments, are provided in the Errata. Comments received during the Errata and Final EIS review periods will be considered in the "Record of Decision," the final decision-making document prepared by the Federal Highway Administration. The Record of Decision is expected to be available for public review in early 2015.

In accordance with the ADA of 1990, auxiliary aids/services may be provided upon request by a person with a disability by contacting the ADOT Civil Rights Office by emailing projects@azdot.gov or by calling 855.712.8530. Native Americans Exempt From Tax Penalty

The Affordable Care Act (ACA) promotes health insurance coverage for all. For income tax year 2014 the ACA requires all taxpayers to report their proof of health insurance or pay a penalty. As a Native American with a tribal affiliation, you are entitled to an exemption from this penalty. This exemption waives the payment penalty. In order to claim this exemption, you have some options.

Exemptions from the Penalty

You may qualify for an exemption from the penalty for not having health insurance coverage for any of the months during the 2014 calendar year. The law states that you must have minimum essential coverage for all months. This rule applies not only to the tax filer, but must include any of the dependents that are claimed. One day of coverage in the month counts as coverage for the entire month. Here are some of the reasons the federal government will consider you as exempt:

- You are a member of a federally recognized tribe or eligible for services through an Indian Health Services/tribal facility, such as Gila River Health Care
- The lowest-priced health care coverage available to you would cost more than 8% of your household income

- You are not required to file a tax return
 - You are a member of a recognized religious sect with religious objections to insurance
 - You are incarcerated (either detained or jailed), and not being held pending disposition of charges
 - You are not lawfully present in the U.S.
 - You qualify for a hardship exemption
- Individuals need to only meet one of the above exemption criteria.

How to Apply for a Tribal Exemption

Members of federally recognized tribes, Alaskan Natives and people who are otherwise eligible for services through an Indian health care provider can apply for an exemption two different ways. Gila River Health Care Benefits Coordination Staff would like to assist you with this process.

1. Paper Application

The Benefits Coordinators can assist you with completing a paper exemption application form and mailing it with supporting documentation. You will need to submit documentation of membership in a federally recognized tribe. You must provide one of the following:

- Certificate of Indian Blood, or
- Tribal Identification Card or

- Letter from Gila River Health Care stating you are eligible for services.

Upon completion of this process, the Marketplace will send you an Exemption Certification Number (ECN). The ECN will stay with you forever, similar to a social security number. This number will tell the federal government you are exempt from the tax penalty. Once you receive this number, you would indicate this on your IRS form. Exemptions from this source need to be obtained at the earliest opportunity.

2. Claiming an Exemption on Federal Income Taxes

Remember, when you file a federal income tax return use the IRS health coverage exemption Form 8965. Codes for exemption (A-E) are listed in the instructions. Mark the specific code for Native Americans.

The important things to remember are Gila River Health Care has trained staff at their site in Komatke and HuHuKam Memorial Hospital to assist with this process. Also you Do Not require health insurance to be seen at any of our facilities. This change in the ACA does not impact your eligibility for care as a Native American at our facilities.
