Historic Huhugam petroglyph boulder returned to the Community after 84 years

Boulder sat on LDS Mesa Temple grounds before its return

Arriving on the back of a large flatbed truck, a special delivery of a culturally significant object arrived at the District 2 Hashan Kehk Multipurpose Building, decades after being removed from the Community.

Weighing-in at around 9,000 lbs, or a little over four metric tons, a Huhugam petroglyph boulder, was delivered back to the Gila River Indian Community by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints on Nov. 10.

The boulder's return to the Community, comes as a bit of surprise, because its removal was unknown at the time in 1934. Now, with the delivery of such a significant object, it closes one chapter and opens another for the future of the Community.

Barnaby Lewis, Tribal Historic Preservation Officer, said it is important to preserve the religious and cultural integrity of the Community. Returning the boulder is one way educating Community members.

"We try to make an effort to educate them about cultural protocols, that are associated with situations of this matter," said Lewis.

For 84 years, the petroglyph boulder sat on the LDS Mesa Temple grounds, until a recent landscaping project created an opportunity for the church to return the object.

"To the best of my knowledge, the Community was not aware until the church administration reached out to them about returning the boulder," said Lewis.

Lewis said, in the 1930s the Pima Indian Agency superintendent A.H. Kneale had control of Community affairs and allowed the boulder to be removed.

New school in District 1 will replace current Blackwater Community School built in 1939

Just five months after Gila Crossing Community School's groundbreaking ceremony, Blackwater Community School has officially started their new school construction project with a ground breaking ceremony of their own.

Before the real digging can begin, 17 gold-colored shovels marked the end of a long process to receive federal funding for a replacement school and the beginning of a new era for Blackwater as they transition from the current school built in 1939. A new replacement school will serve approximately 400 kindergarten through fifth grade students, who will learn in state of the art classrooms and in a Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) certified building.

The ceremony was held Nov. 16 and Henry Pino, BWCS Board President welcomed all the guests to the school and presided over the historic affair.

Tribal dignitaries, former students and elders all offered their thoughts on the occasion and congratulated all the stakeholders for the work leading up to the groundbreaking.

"This is what happens when we pull together, when we work together," said Gov. Stephen Roe Lewis.

On Sept. 25, the Assistant Secretary for Indian Affairs, Tara Sweeney, announced that BWCS will receive $30.1 million to con-

NFL honors Purple Heart recipient at Salute to Service game

Roberto A. Jackson
Gila River Indian News

The Arizona Cardinals lost the football game but won the respect of service men and women, and veterans with their special Salute to Service presentations on Nov. 18 at State Farm Stadium in Glendale, Ariz. The game against the Oakland Raiders featured two struggling teams in a 23-20 Raiders' victory, but both sides came together for the acknowledgment of military members and veterans.

League-wide the NFL held events and presentations in honor of their Salute to Service campaign, which raises donations for veteran resources and support for the military community. As with all NFL franchises, the Cardinals recognized veterans, highlighted their partnerships with the U.S. armed forces and awarded scholarships and paid tribute to Pat Tillman, the Arizona State University and Arizona Cardinals football player who died while fighting in Afghanistan. The NFL also fund raised for the league's military non-profit partners through the sale of official Salute to Service merchandise, the special camouflage apparel of NFL teams.

Prior to the game, Gary Rodriguez, a Community member retired from the United States Marine Corps, was joined on the field by Lt. Gov. Robert Stone for the filming of a video presentation that was played during a break in the game.

Rodriguez received a Purple Heart for fighting in Iraq where he was wounded by an improvised explosive device. He said he retired in 2006. "It's an honor to be here to represent the Community," said Rodriguez.

Rodriguez said he joined the Marines for the Community and he never envisioned "something like this," and appreciated the recognition from the Arizona Cardinals.

"I was in combat for three and a half months and I asked God if he just got me back to the Community that I would live my life in peace. And I've come back and I have a six-year-old daughter, a two-year-old son and a third son on the way, so I'm happy I made it back," said Rodriguez.

According to the Veterans and Family Services Office records, Rodriguez is one of eight living Community members with a Purple Heart (25 are deceased).

Lt. Gov. Stone praised Rodriguez's example. "We always want them to come back safely to the Community and we pray and love them dearly for their commitment to serve," said Lt. Gov. Stone.

Letter to readers: GRIN Newsperson says goodbye

Aaron J. Tohtsoni
Gila River Indian News

Dear GRIN Readers:
It has been quite a year working for the Gila River Indian News and getting the opportunity to learn about the Akimel O'otham and Pee Posh cultures, as well as, the many different annual events that paint a picture of the Gila River Indian Community.

It has been a rewarding year but when opportunities come knocking, it's hard not to answer. With that being said, I will be leaving the GRIN after the Thanksgiving holiday. It was not an easy decision to stop working for the Community but it was the next step in my career.

A few of my favorite events from the past year include the Miss Gila River Pageant, O'otham New Year, Mul-Chu-Tha and attending the Boys and Girls Club skate event at Gila River Arena.

Before working with the GRIN, I was primarily a sports reporter and one thing that I wanted to do was highlight the athletes from the Community and I feel like I managed to do that in the time I was here.

Aside from my work duties, I met some incredible people from the Community and learned about new cultures. Before I started working here, I did not know that there was a difference between the O'otham and Pee Posh, that they have distinctive languages and traditions. It's ironic because I think I know more O'otham words than I do Apache words, which is the tribe I am.

I would like to thank everyone in the Community that welcomed me and that I worked with over the year. Most importantly, I want to thank the readers of the Gila River Indian News and hope that the content I wrote exceeded your standards and was interesting to read.

Sincerely,
Aaron J. Tohtsoni

By Billy Allen

Some time ago December was considered the middle of the year. O’otham farmers knew it was important to know when the sun begins its walk back for longer days. The days of preparing canals and fields were close by. (As an older GRICster, long, cold winter

A’AGA

Something to be told or talked about nights make me think back to good old summer heat.) Some of our southern cousins referred to December as “backbone month,” others would have called it “big cold month.” During Antonio Azul’s time, two names were recorded for December; “gray” or Sko: mag and “big winter” or Ge’cho S-hehpigik.

The Huhugam Heritage Center passed along some early copies of the Gila River News. Since there is an outside chill, I decided to stay inside and look at the 1964 December issue to see what issues and concerns were written about just over 50 years ago. General news, announcements, district news, an editorial, and sports page was the basic format for the paper.

The lead story was about the Sacaton Recreation Center – ground was finally broken after four years of planning meetings. Bulldozers were moving dirt to develop an earthen 5,000 seat outdoor amphitheater. The fairgrounds complex would eventually have baseball and softball diamonds, a community hall and a swimming pool. A bigger exhibit area would be created along with expanding the rodeo grounds in anticipation of the Mul-Chu-Tha, scheduled for February 13-14, 1965.

The editorial page posed a question, “Will you fail your family during the holidays?” It addressed the abuse of alcohol and asked individuals to do some “wise thinking and no drinking.”

4-H was a popular program for young people on Gila River. GRIC 4-H projects were in the fields of health, science, agriculture, citizenship. At the Pinal County Awards dinner of 1964, four Gila River members were recognized:

Wallace Jones and Jerry Ahmsaty of Casa Blanca, along with Ethelyn Jones and Lavena Marrietta of Sacaton.

Barbara Ahmsaty submitted an article for the December issue about a Gila River Youth Group attending a production of “West Side Story” at Arizona State University. Some donations helped, but a lot of cars got washed to pay for the pizza and tickets to the “West Side.”

District 3 hosted a semi-formal dance for teenagers on December 26th at the Sacaton school dining room. The Lopez Music Makers played, but during their breaks, “Swim and Watusi” records kept people out on the floor.

News from Casa Blanca centered on the opening of the new community building. A dinner was held at the Casa Blanca Day School dining room.

District 6, “Smoke Signals” reporter Eva Hill thanked the Gila River News Staff for sponsoring monthly writing contests for the youth. Today’s youth need constant encouragement for life seems to be an uphill climb but “what you work for, you will appreciate,” she would add.

Arthur Yaramatta and family hosted a Thanksgiving dinner for the “mud hens,” with after dinner entertainment provided by gourd singers. The Presbyterian Church hosted a community dinner for which Nick Sunn donated pork barbeque. While over at the San Juan Feast area others gathered to eat. After dinner, a women’s basket race was held with two groups of women running. Ruth Giff and Ester Shelde earned honors for the first group. The second group consisted of Pauline Oliver, Rosella Bilagody and Nadine Lewis. All the runners vowed to practice for next year’s race.

The sports page highlighted young GRIC athletes. Robert Blackwater and Evelyn Antone wrote that Coolidge High School had 72 Native students enrolled, the highest number of Native students in school history. The basketball team listed Ardell Ruiz, Dale Blackwater, and Randy Ruiz on the roster. Other news reported was that two former Coolidge High graduates visited the school, Dudney Arlentino now enrolled at Haskell Institute and Murray Enas, attending Greer Technical, a heavy equipment school. Augustine Lopez and Everett Kisto placed third in steer roping at the Papago Rodeo last month. Jewel Whitman tied for second in steer riding at Florence Junior Parada. He won $112, a bull rope and a watch.

Leon Armstrong was selected by the Sacaton Women’s Club as student of the month. Leon played football at Casa Grande Union High School. Adult basketball teams were also in action on the reservation. The Sacaton Saberettes had a scrimmage against Lehi while the Sacaton Maidens dropped two games against Lehi and the Mesa Indians. On the men’s side, the Sacaton A. C. played the Mesa Indians.

It is about that time for the sun to go down. I think I’ll go out and watch it descend. Hopefully reading about our past brings a few warm memories, maybe a chuckle, smile, or even a GRIN.

Gila Crossing students learn computer science with the Hour of Code

With the help of students from Cesar Chavez High School, students from Gila Crossing Community School kicked off Computer Science Education Week with a learning event that teaches the fundamentals of computer coding. The Hour of Code is a one-hour introduction to computer science which introduces the basics of coding, and takes place every year during Computer Science Education Week to “broaden participation in the field of computer science.”

Throughout the day, assisted by members of the Native American Code Writers Program at Cesar Chavez, the students at Gila Crossing participated in the Hour of Code on Nov. 30 by logging into video games and, “Instead of just playing the video game, they’re learning how to create it,” said Linda Coyle, Education Consultant to the Science Foundation Arizona.

The students learned about coding, which Coyle said could lead them down a career path in an ever-increasing high tech world. “If you look at the people who are in computer science, you’re missing females, you’re missing underrepresented groups, specifically Native Americans,” said Coyle.

Isaac Salcido, Director, Tribal Education Department, was on hand for the event and observed the students interact with the high school students who are already learning computer science. “It just really opens up the world for them,” said Salcido.

One of those students Jacob Barehand, was among the four from Cesar Chavez to volunteer during the Hour of Code. Barehand started his computer science courses as a freshman and plans to take them for all four years in high school.

All four students from Cesar Chavez, Barehand, Kayla Thompson, Damien Cawker and Jayden Goseyun, attended Gila Crossing.

“It feels good learning something in high school then coming back to my elementary school,” said Barehand.

“I always like coming back here and helping the kids,” said Cawker.

from Salt River Project, and the event was organized by the Science Foundation Arizona, Code.org and others.

Birdwatchers observe GRIC’s feathered friends at the Winter Bird Count

Gila River Indian News

Volunteers and participants recently gathered for a morning adventure in the Community, connecting wildlife management with cultural traditions.

The Winter Bird Count, an event where Community members travel to different locations within the Community to identify, count, and record different species of birds, was held on Dec. 1.

Community members and their families and bird enthusiasts alike traveled to one of three meeting locations, where they were given a briefing by representatives from the Department of Environmental Quality.

Throughout the Community groups had a chance to meet-up at 7 a.m. in either District 5 at the Casa Blanca Shell Station, District 6 at the Komatke Chevron Station, and at District 7’s Service Center.

In O’otham and Pee Posh culture, birds are highly regarded and often serve a purpose within teachings and songs.

The winter bird count is an annual event, held in conjunction with the Audubon Society and DEQ and invites academics like David Pearson, professor at Arizona State University School of Life Sciences.

One of the sites visited was the Managed Aquifer Recharge Site 5, where the bird watchers gathered to collect their bird field guide books and a pair of binoculars.

It wasn’t long before the group spotted a red tail hawk, a Harris hawk, and a prairie falcon.

Among other birds spotted at the MAR 5, were a group of Gila Woodpecker and ducks, that are often hard spot and blend in well with the environment.

Later, the same group traveled to the Sacaton lagoon, where an extraordinary site awaited them.

An adult bald eagle soared through the air above the lagoon looking for prey. After a few low-level passes to stir up the ducks at the lagoon, the bald eagle landed atop a telephone pole, looking for the next opportunity to snatch its prey.

“At the Sacaton lagoons, we had the bald eagle come flying in, it was the first thing we saw as we drove up there,” Pearson said.

He said the eagle was there to roust the ducks, hoping to pick-off a wounded straggler among the water fowl at the lagoon.

After the bird watching, everyone made their way to the Huhugam Heritage Center for cultural performances and a meal.

At the HHC, basket dancers and singers sang a variety of songs and concluded their performance with a social round dance.

Several bird watcher groups reported on their experiences seeing birds. They saw a variety of birds, that are either traveling through or making a home in the Community.

It’s more than a rest stop for migratory birds.

“We see reddish egret from Mexico and orchard oriole from back East and mallard ducks,” said Pearson.

Among the different types of birds spotted in the Community are Lincoln’s Sparrow, which is outside of its year-round and migration area, which extends into the northern regions of North America.

Scanning the marsh at MAR 5, Pearson made a sound that he said was the equivalent to an alarm call,

Guides identify the local birds in the Community. Christopher Lomahquahu/GRIN to get their attention, which led to the marsh coming alive with the sounds of various birds calling to one another.

He said if the marsh at MAR 5 stays wet all year long, the birds that migrate through the Community could stay throughout the year and as well as the return of native species like the black-bellied whistling duck.

“When we get to the Sacaton lagoon we will see up to 14 species, when you do a weekly census, you start to see things that shouldn’t be here. You see more and more of these rare birds showing up,” he said.

Pearson said the Community is serving as a refuge during hunting season and stay here throughout the winter in locations like MAR 5 and the Sacaton lagoons. He said, it’s a matter of preference for the birds, who make their home among the sprawling landscape of the Community.

In total, there were up to 213 species of birds that have been documented in the Community and 173 those have been over this year.

At the HHC Gov. Stephen Roe Lewis said, “We are developing a very good record that we can use and charting exactly how our community’s natural wildlife is going to survive in the coming years.”

He said, the unique part of the bird count, “Reinforces, what we are doing in documenting the wildlife in the Community through the winter bird count, and how we as O’otham people have the responsibilities of protecting our lands, because they can’t survive without us taking care of the land, our water, the animals and flora and fauna.”

cess to replace the nearly 80-year-old school.

“We’re holding hands as a community to continue our educational pursuit for our young children, that’s never going to disappear,” said Lt. Gov. Robert Stone.

In addition to speakers Charisma Quiroz, Aries Williams, Community Council representatives and Oreen Johns, District 1 elder, representatives from the U.S. Department of the Interior’s Indian Affairs were on hand to share in the celebration.

“We’ve been looking forward to this for a long time,” said Daniel Galvan, division chief, Division of Facilities Management and Construction.

Other presentations included the Akimel O’otham Basket Dancers, BWCS Cheer Squad and the Salt River Senior Steppers. Principal Jagdish Sharma addressed the crowd following the groundbreaking and once again thanked everyone who attended and assisted in the long pro-

The Gila River Health Initiative and District 3 recreation co-sponsored the first-ever Family Fall Festival held on Nov. 17 at the Sacaton Middle School football field.

With a turnout of 200 participants, the two groups hope to continue to host the event each year while improving on the first go-around.

“We wanted to do something that involved the whole Community and not just District 3,” said Shayla Narcisco, recreation coordinator. “We reached out to Alie (Walking Badger) and put together a budget to make it a big event. It was just kind of talking between us.”

The event featured carnival style games, raffle drawings, live entertainment from Midnight Rain, hayrides and a 1-mile fun walk and ½ mile elder walk. There was also an inflatable obstacle course, rock climbing wall and two mini-carnival rides.

“It was a test trial but I think it went pretty good,” said Walking Badger, Special Events Coordinator. “Now we know what we need to work on for next year, where we can improve. I would like to keep it going as an annual event.”

Participants of the event said they enjoyed that there were activities available for the children and it gave them an opportunity of a fun family outing. Having the walks in the beginning gave everyone a jolt of energy for the rest of the occasion.

While there was a big turnout for the event, Narcisco said other events in the Community played a factor in participation of certain competitions that had been planned. Looking ahead, the pair said they might move the event date to a different time of the fall season but reiterated they want to continue growing the festival.

The event observes Native American Heritage Month and includes Native veterans from across the country to represent their tribal communities.

Corylee Redhorse, USCG Petty Officer Third Class Yeoman, who is an enrolled member of the Navajo Nation, coordinated the day of activities, that included a series of cultural performances.

Members from Post 84 traveled to Terminal Island and toured the base and assisted in the opening ceremony and posting of the colors.

“Thank you all for traveling very far to be here and volunteering your time and your effort to represent and honor Native people, Native veterans and our active duty folks here on base,” said Redhorse.

Redhorse also said the event highlights the diversity of the military and celebrates unity and the shared commitment to serve others.

The event was moved from the outside to inside the base’s warehouse due to weather conditions.

Base Commanding Officer William Winburn welcomed the Native veterans for traveling to the base and Redhorse, for helping organize the event.

“This is the first time an event like this has been held here at base LA-LB, and we couldn’t be more honored or blessed, it really means a whole lot to me,” said Winburn.

He said many of the veterans in attendance have served with honor and distingtion. San Carlos Veterans Association presented Winburn with a decorative blanket bearing the tribal symbol of the San Carlos Apache Tribe, a burden basket, and warrior staff.

O’otham Veterans Association member Douglas Juan was among the representatives from the Community.

“Not everybody thanks you enough for your service, but as Native veterans, we’re all brothers and sisters, we watch out for each other and we take care of each other, so this event just goes to show how important [you] are as well,” said Juan.

Juan welcomed the veterans’ posts in attendance and the USCG personnel to come out to the 75th Annual Iwo Jima landing celebration in February of next year.

“I thank you on behalf of our Community and appreciate the invitation for having us here, you do a lot to protect our country at home and around the world,” said Juan.

Elizabeth Perez, Deputy Secretary of Minority Veterans Affairs, and a member of the California Valley Miwok Tribes, discussed the importance of connecting with other Native military members.

“I never saw anything like this. I think it is really important to understand where we come from and think of the hardships that molded us into what we are doing today,” said Perez.

Perez described the historic trauma of her people, and how it was important to maintain a connection to her culture while in the Navy.

To close out the event, representatives from each of the veterans’ post provided a gourd dance and was joined by Winburn, who took part in the dance to honor the service members in attendance.

Spiritual runners including Community member Jivik Siiki led the way as the large heavy-duty trucks brought the boulder to the site near the District 2 Multipurpose Building. Before the trucks came to a rest, the runners made several offerings of salt as they circled the boulder, with basket dancers and singers, with gourds in hand, singing traditional Akimel O’otham songs. When the boulder was finally settled into place Marvin Thomas, District 2 elder, commented on the boulder’s return to the Community and how they prepared for its arrival. Thomas said they examined the boulder on the temple grounds before it was returned. “It’s really special to have something like this to return back to its home,” said Thomas. Now that the boulder has been returned, Community members can visit the site and pay their respects in their own way, and view the intricate inscriptions, only those before us could explain.

Gila River Indian Community Applauds Passage of Homelands Legislation by Senate Committee on Indian Affairs

Communications & Public Affairs Office

Gila River Indian Community

On Nov. 26, the Senate Committee on Indian Affairs passed H.R. 4032, the Gila River Indian Community Federal Rights-of-Way, Easements and Boundary Clarification Act, with bipartisan support.

The legislation fully implements a prior settlement agreement with the federal government which settles a trust accounting suit brought by the Community and requires re-creation of all federal rights-of-way on the Reservation. The legislation also clarifies a section of the Community Reservation boundary that will avoid a title dispute with the City of Phoenix. In exchange for the lands at issue in the disputed area along the Northwest boundary of the Reservation, the bill allows the Community to add approximately 3,400 acres of culturally important lands in the Estrella Mountains to its Reservation. The Community is in the process of purchasing this culturally significant land from the Bureau of Land Management.

When the legislation passed the Senate Committee on Indian Affairs, Governor Stephen Roe Lewis remarked "I am pleased that H.R. 4032 passed the Senate Committee on Indian Affairs today, and can now be considered by the full Senate. I appreciate that Chairman Hoeven, Vice-Chair Udall and the members of the Committee prioritized this legislation that is critical to the Community's efforts to manage our reservation lands, settle the reservation boundary and help the Community acquire lands that are culturally significant. We are hopeful this legislation can be passed by the full Senate before it adjourns in December."

Statement from Gov. Stephen Roe Lewis on the sentencing of a former Blackwater Community School teacher

Communications & Public Affairs Office

Gila River Indian Community

SACATON, AZ. - Tadashi Mitchell Harvey, 30, a former teacher at the Blackwater Community School was sentenced by U.S. District Judge David G. Campbell to 21 years in prison followed by lifetime supervised release. The sentence was delivered after Judge Campbell accepted Harvey's Plea Agreement in which Harvey plead guilty to two of six counts of Abusive Sexual Contact of a Minor. Within 72 hours of release, Harvey will be required to register as a sex offender. Harvey may never be able to contact directly or indirectly the Victims or the Victims' families without advanced written permission. Moreover, as of August 27, 2018, Harvey was excluded indefinitely by Community Court Order from the Gila River Indian Community.

Gila River Indian Community Gov. Stephen Roe Lewis has released the following statement concerning the sentencing on Wednesday, November 14, 2018, of Tadashi Mitchell Harvey:

"On behalf of our Community Council and every member of our Community, I am grateful that the federal district court has rendered what amounts to a life sentence for acts Harvey committed against children of the Gila River Indian Community. Harvey abused a position of trust as a teacher at Blackwater Community School, and now he will never again work around children. It is my hope that this sentence will help our young people and families to heal."

While the Blackwater Community School is operated independently of the Community, the school is sited on the Gila River Indian Reservation and it serves scores of Community children in grades K-5.

"My administration has closely monitored the progress of this case through the federal district court and in the Community Court. Although justice has now been achieved in the courts, we will continue to work to ensure that every single Gila River Indian Community child is protected as fully as possible from individuals who intend to do harm.

The children and families of the children harmed by Harvey continue to remain in my heart, and in my prayers. Thank you for your strength and patience throughout this ordeal."

The Gila River Indian Community mourns the loss of former U.S. Rep. Ed Pastor

Pastor was Arizona's first Hispanic member of Congress

Communications & Public Affairs Office

Gila River Indian Community

SACATON, ARIZ. - Former U.S. Rep. Ed Pastor passed away on Nov. 27 at the age of 75. Pastor retired in 2014 after serving 23 years in Congress as Arizona's first Hispanic congressman. He was an influential figure locally and in Washington, D.C., and a distinct role model for the Latino community.

"The Gila River Indian Community is deeply saddened by the passing of Congressman Ed Pastor. He leaves behind a legacy of public service to the State and the Nation that we honor and greatly appreciate," Gila River Indian Community Gov. Stephen Roe Lewis said. "His legislative accomplishments include playing a critical role in the Community's historic water settlement agreement in 2004, both in its development, enactment and implementation."

The Gila River Indian Community shares a border with Pastor's former 7th Congressional District. Komatke, District 6, and Maricopa Colony, District 7, run along the Community's northwestern boundary, within a short drive the Phoenix Metro Area. This close proximity gave Pastor a clear view and understanding of the Community's priorities, which included his strong support for the Community's Water Rights and the Arizona Water Settlements Act of 2004.

Pastor received a Bachelor's degree in Chemistry and a Juris Doctorate from Arizona State University and served in the United States House of Representatives from 1991-2014. He was a former high school teacher and also served as a staff member for the late Governor Raul Castro.

"The Community will forever be in his debt. In addition to his role as public servant, we came to appreciate Congressman Pastor as a genuine friend to all of us in the Community. We will all truly miss him and we want to express our deepest condolences to his family in the time of their loss," Gov. Lewis said.

DEQ conducts jackrabbit surveys to determine population trends

Christopher Lomahquahu
Gila River Indian News

In the Community, jackrabbits have been a food staple among the people and are a familiar sight among the underbrush, seeking shelter from predators.

In response to Community interest, the Department of Environmental Quality recently conducted a jackrabbit survey in two areas of the Community where jackrabbits have been known to be common.

The Oct. 25 survey was conducted in District 2 and District 6, and included a tally of numbers for the black tailed and antelope jackrabbits. It also included a tally of the cottontail rabbit, which is not a traditional game species in this Community.

"In recent decades jackrabbits have been in decline," said Dr. Russell Benford, DEQ Environmental Program Manager.

"Recently, [we] conducted a survey, because jackrabbits have cultural and ecological importance [here] in the Community."

"This survey is about determining long-term population trends, and every year we are going to go back to these locations to see how the population fluctuates," said Woodrow Crumbo, DEQ Wildlife Biologist.

"For the District 2 survey, we had 20 observers and we ended up observing 20 black tailed jackrabbits. For the District 6 survey, we had 22 observers and eight black tailed jackrabbits, and one antelope jackrabbit was recorded there," said Crumbo.

He said there are a lot of different factors that play a role in their population dynamics, so a major thing to look into would be environmental factors like precipitation, which directly correlates to plant growth, as well as how grazing animals and predators affect the jackrabbit population.

The survey design was similar to other jackrabbit surveys in the region, but DEQ wanted to do one of their own to compare regional trends with those observed in the Community.

"The habitats have changed so much since the river has gone dry; this has changed the dynamics of the whole system" said Crumbo, "Another possible factor affecting jackrabbit populations is habitat conversion, such as turning the natural landscape into agricultural land."

A place in the desert

The Gila River Indian Community is located at the Northern boundary of the distribution of antelope jackrabbit, which could explain the sighting of the hare. The antelope jackrabbit's distribution stretches from desert grasslands in Southern Arizona to coastal regions of Central Mexico.

Where open grasslands are plentiful, the probability of spotting more antelope jackrabbits is greater. On the other hand, the black-tailed jackrabbit, can be found pouncing in a denser under story of desert shrubs and mesquite trees. This denser habitat is used primarily for shelter.

Benford said it is still unclear what is causing the decline of the jackrabbits, but he offered a few possibilities as to what might be contributing.

One possibility is that there could be less vegetation for the jackrabbits to feed on, which can be attributed to the lack of precipitation. This also could mean there is less under story or shrubbery to use as protection/shelter.

"The surveys will help us unravel the question of why the population is declining within the Community," he said, "We are also interested in talking with Community members about the historical and cultural importance of jackrabbits, and about how they have managed and would like to see DEQ manage these species."

He said it's about consulting the constituents; soliciting input from their own traditions, experiences and observations; and calling to action Community members who wish to help conserve this resource.

DEQ conducts ongoing surveys of the Southwestern willow flycatcher, Western yellow-billed cuckoo, Ridgway's rail, Bendire's thrasher, LeConte's thrasher and tamarisk beetles and weevils. Other wildlife species that DEQ is developing survey protocols for include tiger beetles, the Northern Mexican garter snake, Gambel's quail and mesquite mouse.

Anyone who would like to participate in the jack rabbit survey, please contact DEQ at (520) 562-2761.

Life Center Diabetes Prevention wraps up Just Move It season

Submitted by the Life Center
Gila River Health Care

In July of 2018, Life Center Diabetes Prevention began the planning and implementation of the 7th Annual Just Move It community-wide 1 and 3-mile fun walk/run events. Some of the objectives of these events are to expose everyone to physical activity. We would like to show that physical activity can be a family outing and that everyone can go out and walk since there is no special equipment needed.

We do use these events to recruit people to Diabetes Prevention or other Life Center Programs. These programs help so many people prevent diabetes, prevent diabetes complications or help manage the stress that comes from having diabetes. Many people are unaware that such services are available to them.

During Just Move It season we do collaborate with the district service centers for each event. This is a great opportunity to foster or expand existing relationships. It is also a great opportunity to plan other events in the future.

Our goal is to hold the events throughout the seven districts within the Gila River Indian Community. The JMI events are open to the public and approximately 800 participants and a t-shirts for completing the walk/run. Participants are also provided diabetes health education and nutrition information from Diabetes Prevention and other Life Center services.

Life Center Diabetes Prevention Manager Veronica Begaye has been at the Life Center for 10 years. She has seen the growth of this event. It has grown from 840 attendees to 1,370 last year. This year we didn't see quite the same numbers due to unforeseen cancellations.

Diabetes Prevention consists of five staff members and we could not coordinate this huge event without several volunteers from the Life Center staff as well as volunteers from the Gila River Indian Community Genesis Program. Gila River Health Care Public Relations department did a great job designing out t-shirts and our flyers. This event is really a result of so many departments and their expertise.

During each event, volunteers were assigned tasks and duties and it all came together so smoothly each time. We are very fortunate to have so many wonderful people to work with.

Sacaton Middle School Named an Arizona State Finalist in the $2 Million* Samsung Solve for Tomorrow Contest

Sacaton Middle School in Sacaton, Arizona is among the nation's 250 state finalists in the Samsung Solve for Tomorrow Contest – a nationwide competition challenges students in grades 6-12 to apply STEM (science, technology, engineering, and math) skills to find creative solutions to real-world issues impacting their local communities.

Out of thousands of schools that entered the contest, the 250 state finalist classrooms – five from each state – were chosen based on their creative and strategic proposals to solve complicated issues that affect their communities by using STEM learning. All 250 teachers selected as state finalists will receive one Samsung tablet for their classrooms and have the opportunity to advance through future phases of the contest to win additional prizes and educational opportunities. "The Samsung Solve for Tomorrow Contest showcases the talents of student innovators who are identifying and addressing issues impacting their communities," said Ann Woo, Senior Director of Corporate Citizenship at Samsung Electronics America. "We are inspired by the desire of these students to ignite lasting change in their communities and look forward to seeing how their STEM projects unfold in the coming months." With $2 million* in technology on the line, the 250 state finalists will submit a lesson plan detailing how students will execute the proposed STEM project and how they address the identified community issue.

• Sacaton Middle School in Sacaton, Arizona was named one of five Arizona state finalists.

• Mr. Alberto Alaniz – a Middle School teacher – submitted the project idea and will be awarded a Samsung tablet for achieving state finalist status.

• In the months ahead, Mr. Alaniz and his students will work on a project to create a non-lethal rodent trap that can be mass-produced at a modest cost and distributed within the community to combat rodent damage. Gardening is an important aspect of life and a resource for healthy eating as well as, supplements nutritional needs for economically challenged families. Within our own Legacy Orchard Project, this will help mitigate crop damage due to rodent infestations. Additionally, in keeping with our "no kill" ethics, this project is complementary to our communities' wellness. • State winners: 50 state winners will be selected to submit a video of their project in action. For achieving state winner status, 40 of those schools will receive a $20,000 Samsung technology package, including a Samsung video kit to produce their video. The other 10 will progress as a national finalist • National finalists: 10 national finalists will be selected to attend a Pitch Event where they will present their project to a panel of judges. For achieving national finalist status, 7 schools will receive a $50,000 Samsung technology package. The other three will progress to the national winner stage

• National grand prize winners: 3 national winners will be selected, and each will receive $100,000 in classroom Samsung technology and supplies

• Community Choice Award: The general public will elect one winner from the 10 national finalists who will be eligible to win an additional $10,000 Samsung technology package. For questions about the Samsung Solve for Tomorrow Contest, please reach out to SamsungSFT@allisonpr.com. For questions about the school's project, please reach out to cpaul@sacatonschools.org. or call Superintendent Mrs. Cheryl Paul at 480-204-8577.

RAWHIDE CELEBRATES ITS SIXTH ANNUAL RAWHIDE SNOWY CHRISTMAS AT WILD HORSE PASS

Rawhide Western Town has FREE admission every weekend for the holidays! Santa, Snow, Stunt Shows & More!
 CHANDLER, Ariz. – Rawhide Western Town and Event Center announces its sixth annual Rawhide Snowy Christmas kicking off Thanksgiving and running nightly every Friday, Saturday and Sunday from Nov 23-Dec 23!
 Rawhide Western Town will be filled with holiday décor and over a million holiday lights nightly every weekend from Thanksgiving to December 23rd. Western Town opens every weekend night at 5:00pm and admission is FREE ($5 parking fee may apply).
 Guests will be greeted upon opening at 5pm with the Arizona Rough Riders, our very own cowboy stunt men and they'll continue with shows throughout the evening. Santa will lead the official tree lighting ceremony around 6pm with story time followed by snowfall on Main Street. Drop off your letters to Santa at Rawhide's "Delivery to the SW Pole" Post Office and every child who sends Santa a letter will hear back from Ol' Saint Nick himself. Families can also get their holiday photos with Santa nightly. This year Rawhide is adding new and exciting activities for kids and adults alike! Come help Santa paint his Sleigh so it's ready for the big night. Kids can throw on a paint smock and add their personal touch to Santa's own sleigh. In addition, with the purchase of a Rawhide attraction wristband or ticket, you'll also get a gingerbread cookie to decorate yourself.

Try a delicious churro sundae or flavored kettle corn at the new Sonoran Snack Shack. Grab and go bar-b-que and other food options will be available at the Town Grill located on the Main Street and the Honky Tonk bar will be open for all your favorite adult libations.

This year Rawhide has added a dancing light show on the east end of the town – so enjoy all your favorite holiday music animated with sparkling lights.

Get all your holiday shopping done at Rawhide's General Store and Sweet Sallys. We have the perfect unique gifts and stocking stuffers you can't find anywhere else. Western themed gifts, Arizona memorabilia, jewelry, apparel, home décor, gag gifts, toys and more are all available.

Rawhide Steakhouse will only be open for two special nights this season – our Thanksgiving Buffet and the Rawhide Holiday Buffet on December 23rd. Call (480) 502-5600 today to book your reservation for the Holiday Buffet – space is filling up quickly. It's Rawhide's best menu yet with butter roasted lobster tails, open fire grilled top sirloin medallions, thyme-rubbed prime rib, roasted game hens and shrimp scampi. You can't pass up this amazing menu and deal for just $28.95+ for adults and $9.95+ for kids. Give yourself a break from the kitchen and let Rawhide entertain and feed all your family guests for the holidays!
