

First Lady Jill Biden Visits the Gila River Indian Community, Greeted by Traditional Basket Dancers

Gila River Indian News

The First Lady of the United States, Dr. Jill Biden visited the Gila River Indian Community on March 7th as part of a visit to the State of Arizona to discuss the Biden Administration's priorities and initiatives. The visit occurred at the Huhugam Heritage Center where the First Lady was greeted by the Keil Akimel Hua Modk Cudkdam (Gila River Basket Dancers), who conducted a performance in the main plaza of the HHC.

Following the greeting, the First Lady held a private meeting with Governor Lewis, Lt. Governor Monica Antone, and members of the Community Council. During the meeting the elected leaders highlighted the need for strong partnership between the Community and the White House, which was especially apparent during the pandemic. The Community leaders described the leadership role the Community is taking in addressing drought conditions along the Colorado River and invited the First Lady back to see the newly constructed schools, utilizing the innovative program piloted by the Community.

Before attending the public portion of the event, the First Lady walked through the museum portion of the Huhugam Heritage Center and Governor Lewis pointed out the cultural items and artifacts that show the Community's ties to the Gila River in contemporary times and since time immemorial.

The public program began with a prayer by Mr. Barnaby Lewis, Tribal Historic Preservation Officer, followed by a request from Governor Lewis for a moment of silence for the people and the leaders of Ukraine. Governor Lewis stated "as a sovereign nation, the Gila River Indian Community knows that when one sovereign nation is under attack, we are all under attack and we stand with our President and his actions to bring a swift end to the war on the people of Ukraine."

In introducing and welcoming the First Lady to the Gila River Indian Community, Gov. Lewis stated that "Dr. Biden's advocacy and initiatives have offered hope to our students, our families, our veterans and our communities."

"We have to stay together as a people," the First Lady said. "We can't be divided in this country—we have to move forward, because look at all the things that we need to accomplish."

She added that the president has been instrumental in bringing the country together during a turbulent time and with the ongoing crisis in Ukraine. First Lady Biden said the president has focused on education and accessibility to the internet in rural communities as well as the preservation of indigenous languages through various initiatives.

Echoing her remarks, Gov. Lewis said, "I think we all know the last election was an unprecedented time in the middle of a pandemic, a divided country, because our democratic processes were put to the test, Native voting was put to the test, and our president Joe Biden rose to the occasion because this country needed a leader who has put the people first, since day one."

"As an educator," the first lady said, "I know all children should have the same access to the internet [for] education. I taught the last spring over the internet and online, and it was hard for our kids... [T]hey have so much to make up, and it's hard on the families."

She also said that we have to make sure Native Americans have access to clean drinking water and good-paying jobs. "[These] are the things that we need we all can agree on and that we all have to work together to achieve," said the first lady.

During the sharing of remarks in the main galley of the HHC exhibit hall, City of Phoenix Mayor Kate Gallego expressed her gratitude for first lady Biden's visit to her city and the Community.

"We're so thankful to the city leadership of our first family and the commitment to Arizona," Gallego said. "[W]e are so happy to have her first in Phoenix and now on the Gila River Indian Community, so thank you for your investment, bettering the lives of all of our community together," said Gallego.

Gallego added that the Community and the Biden administration have been instrumental in addressing the COVID-19 pandemic, offering mobile vaccinations units and, with the presidents' support of the American Rescue Plan, bringing needed funding to communities everywhere.

The first lady encouraged everyone to consider the mid-term elections and how that will shape the country with Senate seats up for grabs. "You know that we are working hard for you and we all really appreciate that you are standing behind us," the first lady said, "and so thank you for inviting me here today and for allowing me to talk to you [and] for just being a part of this positive optimistic movement as we move forward."

First lady Jill Biden was introduced to invited guests, during her visit to the Community and the friendship the Biden Administration has developed with GRIC. Christopher Lomahquahu/GRIN

GRIC Employees Fully Return to Work in Wake of Lower COVID-19 Cases

Community Schools also Prepare for Students' Return to In-person Learning

Gila River Indian News

After returning to their workplaces in phases over the past year, Gila River Indian Community governmental employees returned in full force on March 14 now that COVID-19 cases have decreased significantly in the Community and across the state. Arizona has a 12.3% positive rate and a total of 1,992,471 positive cases as of March 16, according to the Arizona Department of Health Services.

In March 2020 at the onset of the pandemic, GRIC's executive orders initiated mask mandates, stay-at-home orders and the tribal governmental shutdown that led employees to begin working from home to limit in-person interactions and slow the spread of COVID-19.

In April 2021, the Tribal Government Return to Work Plan was approved and began partial re-opening, allowing departments to function with only 25 to 75% of staff teleworking, based on the changing conditions of the pandemic.

Crucial departments and services like the District

Service Centers remained at 100% to assist and serve the Community throughout the pandemic.

"As we ease in to in-person meetings, open gyms and computer labs, [the] Community Services Department will always ensure safety first for everyone," said Laurie Thomas, Community Services Department Director.

Thomas said District Service Center staff limits in-person interactions for the safety of staff and community members and to allow services to continue.

Now, full operations have begun to resume throughout the Community while maintaining COVID-19 safety measures and precautions from the Tribal Health Department (THD).

"Some elders were excited to return and interact with others they had not seen," Thomas said. However, she added that others were saddened to return, knowing the Community lost so many lives to the virus and many elders will no longer be part of the daily activities at the Elder Centers.

Like the rest of the country, the Community in January experienced a surge in positive cases, but has since seen a turnaround.

"With the phase[d] approach, we will be able to transition into a different phase if we begin to experience a surge in positive cases," said Candelarian Preston, Director of the Tribal Health Department.

Employees must go through a health screening at the beginning of each work day and are required to wear proper personal protective equipment (PPE), provided by GRIC's Office of Emergency Management (OEM), when conducting services.

Visitors also must complete a health screening prior to entering any tribal government building or department. All entities, organizations and departments are required to report any positive COVID-19 cases immediately to THD.

"Our current 14-day percent test rate is 0.4%. This indicates positive cases have decreased substantially for the Community; therefore, the risk of infection has lessened," said Preston.

Of the 14,682 positive COVID cases reported by THD as of March 15, 6,996 were among GRIC members and 7,686 were non-members, with 134 deaths among GRIC members. Only seven positive cases were reported between March 7 and March 13, according to the THD's COVID-19 data report.

COVID-19 surveillance testing must be done for all employees on a biweekly basis, regardless of vaccination status. If positive cases in GRIC continue to decrease, surveillance testing may only be required for those who have not received the COVID vaccine or have not been fully vaccinated, according to Preston.

Individuals are considered fully vaccinated two weeks after receiving their second dose of either Pfizer or Moderna vaccines or two weeks after receiving the single dose of the Johnson & Johnson vaccine. A booster (third dose) is recommended when eligible.

Along with the full return-to-work for employees, Executive Order No. 14 was issued with revisions that have reduced other COVID restrictions in the Community.

The mask mandate has been lifted in some areas but masks are still required while inside tribal governmental buildings or Community schools.

Up to 50 people are now allowed at indoor gatherings, with the exception of meetings of elected and appointed GRIC officials and GRIC commercial entities. Exceptions for funerals must be approved by the Executive Office and must follow COVID-19 protection protocols.

A continued moratorium on housing evictions is still in place, but does not apply to evictions based on criminal activity.

Individuals who test positive for COVID-19 or have been advised to quarantine and do not are subject to a written quarantine directive by THD and court-ordered quarantine by Community court, enforceable by Gila River Police Department.

"If the current trend continues, I expect to be able to ease even more of the restrictions in the coming days and weeks," said Gov. Stephen Roe Lewis in a video address to the Community posted on GRIC's official Facebook page on March 11.

Schools in the Community may reopen, but are required to submit a reopening plan to the Education Standing Committee for approval.

The plan must provide that students, teachers and staff attending classes in-person are vaccinated for COVID-19 and provide a negative COVID-19 conducted within five days prior to attending school. They must continue to be tested for COVID-19 while providing virtual learning for non-vaccinated students or those who wish to continue virtual learning.

Gila Crossing Community School, Blackwater Community School, Casa Blanca Community School and the Maricopa Village Christian School were approved by the Education Standing Committee to begin in-person classes March 21.

"We are pleased and excited that Community schools are committed to maintaining a safe and healthy learning environment for our children and are reopening for in-person learning," said Gov. Lewis.

GRIC Member Contributes to Team's Run at State Championships

Christopher Lomahquahu
Gila River Indian News

A Gila River Indian Community member is a rising star on the basketball court who helped take his team to the state championships recently. Josh Pratt, a shooting guard for the Coolidge High School Bears, was instrumental in his team's run at the 3A State Championships on Feb. 25 and 26. While they were upset by the Valley Christian Trojans, Pratt has a bright future in the game and is eyeing a career in the NBA.

"As a parent looking at his progression and commitment as a basketball player, I am very proud of him," said Sabrina Brannon, Pratt's mother. She said basketball has been the center of her son's interest since age nine.

Pratt said like his older brothers, he played a lot of sports growing up. "When I got into junior high, that is when I really started playing basketball."

Brannon said, "Playing basketball was a sport he naturally grew to.... He tried football and tried soccer. He was good in both of them, but once he played basketball, he fell in love with it. He did Little League baseball, but basketball was [his] thing."

Pratt said he's played with many of this teammates on the Bears starting five lineup since junior high, which adds to the team's chemistry in big game situations. "I've really built relationships with all of my teammates and I've been playing basketball with some of them since I was little," said Pratt.

"The boys my son plays with are great," Brannon said. "The starting five has been playing together outside of school and the tournaments from the time of their youth."

In preparing for their championship run, Pratt said the team put in a lot of work and played every tournament available, which pitted them against 5A and 6A schools. "Those games really helped us play through a variety of teams, which added to our confidence as the season went leading up to the championships," he said.

"As far as championships go, last year they went into the playoffs, but they didn't go all the way to the Final Four," said Brannon. She said last year's run was difficult because the teammates could not practice as much or play during the height of COVID-19 due to limits on the use of facilities.

When the team made their trips to the state championships in Phoenix, they were sent off by fellow students, school staff and family members. Pratt said, "It's pretty exciting, before we'd leave for the games, they [had] a big send-off where everybody [was] waving and saying, "Good luck!"

During the tournament, Pratt said, it was good to see parents and residents from Coolidge who made the drive to Phoenix to cheer on the team. "I've never seen that before in all the times I have gone to school at Coolidge High School," said Pratt. "It was an amazing experience."

During the semifinals game against the Holbrook Roadrunners, Pratt and the Bears were dominant on the court, going on unanswered scoring streaks for a majority of the game. Pratt contributed to the team's overall score with a slew of three-pointers.

In that game, the Bears defeated the Roadrunners 67-57, ensuring them a shot at the championship the following day against the Valley Christian Trojans. During the championship game the Bears would have a few runs to the basket, putting them ahead by at least 11 points, but the Trojans were not going down without a fight.

"We knew it was going to be a difficult game going into the championship, because we knew how tough Valley Christian would be going into the championships," said Pratt. He said the match-up was pretty even, given both teams led their division in wins and overall victories for the season.

After halftime, with victory still in reach, the Bears faced a few setbacks with late-game fouls, placing the Trojans in a position to notchup their lead. These factors and a couple of misplaced shots caused the Bears' troubles to mount as the Trojans found a way to maintain the lead.

With time running out and the Bears' shots not following through, the Trojans took the game and the 3A championship. "Even though we wanted to win it and came up short, it was still good to bring back a trophy for the school, because we haven't done that in 20 years," said Pratt.

Although the team did not take home the championship, they were greeted by classmates, staff and parents with a parade recognizing their hard work and determination to make this season one to remember.

Pratt said it was a bittersweet ending to a season that offered many opportunities to build on the team's chemistry and to make strides towards the state championships. With high school behind him, Pratt would like to continue his passion for basketball in college as he pursues his education. He said he wants to seek out a career in architecture or engineering.

Although Pratt aspires to play for the NBA, he understands that it is good to have an education to utilize for what opportunities may come his way. Currently, he is trying out for local college basketball teams and eventually would like to attend Northern Arizona University.

Arts & Entertainment GRIC Artists Band Together for the Love of Art and Skateboarding

ArtSpace West at Arizona State University's West Campus in Glendale is hosting the "Boardz & Arrowz" exhibition in March, featuring over 40 one-of-a-kind skateboard decks up for auction. The decks were designed by Native American artists from all over the country, including eight by artists from the Gila River Indian Community (GRIC).

Proceeds from the auction will go towards constructing a new skate park in the GuVo District on the Tohono O'odham Nation.

Organizers set a goal of 40 skateboards so the auction would make a financial impact, but when they didn't meet that, District 6 artist Zachary Justin, through his network, found other GRIC artists to contribute and reach the goal.

"Once I got the boards to everyone, they had a week-and-a-half, a short turnaround, to get it done, but got it done," said Justin, who also designed a skateboard for the auction. When asked what inspired him to contribute, he said, "I used to skate when I was a kid, so contributing to getting a park built is really something. But it's really just the love for art and being able to represent the Community."

District 5 artist Angelo Cortez contributed his "Long Distance Traveler" board. He also skateboarded as a youth and remembers how far he had to travel to go to a skatepark as a kid. His support draws from that experience, and he is happy that the youth of the rural GuVo District in the southwest region of the T.O.N will have a skate park close to home.

"It really makes me feel good to know I contributed my part and give a little to the funding for a skate park, and being a skateboarder, we know there can never be enough skate parks," said

Cortez.

Jacob Meders (Mechoopda/Maidu), assistant professor in the New College of Interdisciplinary Arts and Performance at ASU West, led the event and auction organization in collaboration with Cowtown Skateboards. The company's website includes this quote from Meders: "This exhibition/fundraiser is a fine example of the power in our Native and SK8 communities. Even with all our individual struggles we stand up and unite to help each other."

The exhibition is open to the public from noon to 5 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays at ASU West's "ArtSpace West," 4701 W. Thunderbird Road, through March 31. A full list of artists along with more information on the exhibition, auction, and photos of the skateboards is online at cowtownskate.org.

Jr. Miss Gila River Sineca Jackson Hosts Virtual Farewell, Reflects on Two-Year Reign

Sineca Sunflower Jackson reflected on life during the pandemic and representing Gila River Indian Community for two years as Jr. Miss Gila River during a virtual farewell special on March 12.

“It is a bittersweet farewell but it is time for other amazing young woman in the community to hold the titles of miss and junior miss Gila River,” Jackson servicing the Community’s Akimel O’otham/Pee Posh Youth Council and as a representative on the COVID-19 task force and other initiatives geared towards youth.

Lt. Gov. Monica Antone also offered appreciation for Jackson’s tenure as Jr. Miss Gila River. “I’d like to first of all thank Sineca for her many years of service but first and foremost I would like to thank her parents, Alana Jackson and Jimmy Jackson,” she said.

“Sineca has played a true example of a leader by conducting virtual trainings working with the youth council, speaking up for the vaccination events we had, and ... more input that she gave our COVID task force team and at the same time attending school,” Antone said, adding that Jackson is a “creative and strong resilient Akimel O’otham woman.”

Alyse Marrietta, 2021-22 Miss Indian Arizona, also recalled her time as Miss Gila River, as both she and Jackson took their respective titles at the same time. Marrietta said 2020 felt like a long time ago and the pandemic made it seem even longer with everything being shut down for the first year of their reign.

Speaking about the pageant in which she won the title of Jr. Miss Gila River, Jackson said, “I was fortunate for going out there, getting a feel for different things and ... I didn’t expect to be crowned, but ... I ran with a lot of amazing young women and I was fortunate enough ... to be crowned.”

Marrietta also reminisced on her experience winning the title of Miss Gila River. “I definitely relate to [you,]” she told Jackson. “I know that that whole week it feels surreal because it feels like you’re just pushing yourself to perform at your best and you’re constantly reminding yourself like ‘I want to try my hardest,’ and at the end when you get to the stage and it’s the crowning, at that point a little part of me is like, ‘I don’t care if I get the crown; I did it anyways,’” said Marrietta.

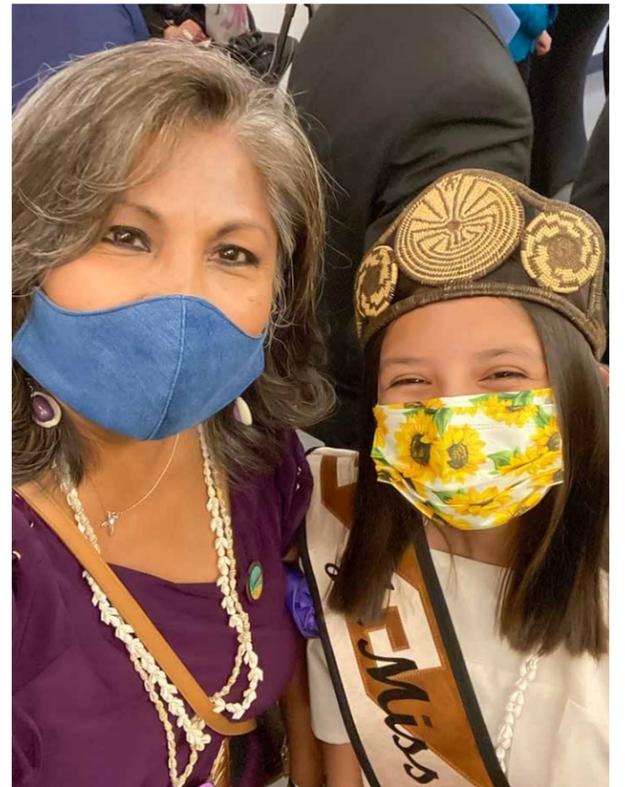

Marrietta and Jackson looked back at their reigns—from virtual presentations, workshops and eventually in-person events when restrictions eased—and said they both wanted to represent the Community in the best way possible.

“During that time, it was very unusual circumstances we had to overcome, such as the pandemic, which really affected us in some different ways,” said Marrietta. “As royalty, we really felt obligated to share our voice, making sure that people were informed about safety protocols and the COVID guidelines and actually because of COVID.”

Jackson added that some of the highlights of

Chief Azul Scholar Awards Now Accepting Nominations for Students

Emma Hughes
Gila River Indian News

The Gila River Indian Community Tribal Education Department (TED) is accepting nominations for the 2022 Chief Azul Scholar and Citizenship Awards, which acknowledge educational accomplishments, academic excellence and leadership by students in the Community.

Formerly known as the Governor’s Scholars Award, in 2016 Gov. Stephen Roe Lewis recommended it be renamed to honor Chief Antonio Azul (1817-1909), the last head chief of the Akimel O’otham.

The award recognizes students who embody the same leadership qualities as Chief Azul and provides motivation for them to aspire towards higher educational goals and achievements.

“These are students who have worked hard throughout their whole school career and have done a good job of staying focused, [having] good attendance, and keeping their academics up during the pandemic,” said Isaac Salcido, director for the Tribal Education Department.

Parents or school advisors may nominate a student who shows exemplary behavior, participates in extracurricular activities, demonstrates cultural knowledge or interest, and displays individual determination to succeed and further their education.

Salcido shared that during the pandemic, some students did better in a virtual-learning environment that allowed them to learn at their own pace and without the typical distractions of in-person learning.

“This is a real opportunity to honor our kids who are succeeding and of course their families, too,” he said.

The 2022 Chief Azul Scholar Award is open to fourth-through twelfth-grade students and full-time undergraduate college students who demonstrates consistent performance, desire and ability to achieve their goals.

There will be one Chief Azul Scholar Award and two honorable mentions per grade and nominees must be an enrolled GRIC member or have a parent enrolled. The student must submit a personal essay is required for ninth-through twelfth-grade students and undergraduate candidates as well as two letters of recommendation and other supporting documents requested in the application.

The 2022 Chief Azul Citizenship Award recognizes outstanding GRIC high school students who consistently demonstrate a positive attitude and friendly demeanor and who are a role model to others.

Citizenship award nominees must provide proof of GRIC enrollment and must be a high school senior for the 2021-2022 school year. The student must submit a personal statement letter and provide two letters of recommendations from school staff and other supporting documents requested in the application.

Fifteen seniors will be selected for the Chief Azul Citizenship Award, and in the past years, recipients received an all-expense paid trip to Washington, D.C., which the department hopes to continue this year.

The recipients have the opportunity to travel, tour and visit with Congressional leaders and other GRIC members who reside in the area, all of which is tentatively scheduled for this summer.

“Last year, we did totally virtual,” said Salcido. The Washington trip was cancelled and a virtual awards event was held to celebrate the nominees and announce winners via Zoom. Seniors also received laptops to assist with their educational and work endeavors.

Salcido said he hopes the in-person event will resume this year, depending on the conditions of the pandemic.

“It turns into a very, very nice event for the Community and a great way to honor the students as well,” he added.

The awards event is scheduled for May 14 and will be shared via Zoom. For more information or application packets, visit the Tribal Education Department website at gricted.com or call (520) 562-3662 or email TEDevents@gric.nsn.us. The application deadline is April 8.

Kwi I'ivakithag Mashath, Examples of Oob No'ok (Mountain Pima)

Submitted by
Huhugam Heritage Center

In our modern fast-paced lifestyle, we tend to forget that a:chim Akimel O'otham belong to a larger family of other O'otham. Toward the east, we have S-Auppak O'otham (Florence village People). Up north, we have Onk Akimel O'odham (Salt River People). Toward the southwest, we have Ak-Chin O'odham (Mouth of the Wash People). Due south, we have the Tohono O'odham Nation (Desert People), including San Xavier, Gila Bend, and Hia-Ched O'odham. Across the International Border there are Pimas de México who live in several lowland villages that include Magdalena, Altar, Caborca and Pitiquito.

Further south, in the mountain highlands, live the Oob (Mountain Pima). They live in the villages of Onavas, Yepáchi, Maycoba and Yécora. In 2013, Mr. Marshall Sunna (D-4), escorted a special Delegation of Leaders northward to our community during Mul-Chu-Tha. During their visit, a Language Summit was held at the Huhugam Heritage Center. The Pimas de México Delegates provided a Comparative Linguistics session, which was attended by community language teachers, Elders and then, Governor Gregory Mendoza.

During the session, we learned a few sentence structures in Oob No'ok and realized how similar their language is to ours. A few basic grammar examples in Oob No'ok and Akimel O'otham: "In soiga gogsi." (My pet dog/my dog). Akimel O'otham: "Eñ shoiga gogs." (My pet dog/my dog). The possessive marker "ga" in shoiga is the same for both languages. Example of Personal Pronoun (PP): "Hosi hemak péeso iñ-maa" (Joe one peso me-give [PP]/Joe gave me a peso). Akimel O'otham: "Husi hemako pish eñ ma:k" (Joe gave me one dollar [PP]). Akimel O'otham call US currency bills (pish).

Grammatical spellings may be slightly different, but pronunciations and translations are the same. Subject Pronouns (SP) may be repeated after a statement for emphasis: "Aap si keeg vapkéhél aapi" ([SP] really good cowboy [SP]/You're a real cowboy). Akimel O'otham: ('Ap s-ke:gaj vakial api/You're a real cowboy). The determiner marker (DM) "eg" is equivalent the "heg" in Akimel O'otham: "Eg Oob esi-m ek huun" (DM person planting object corn/The man is planting corn). "Eg okasi naati-m ek ha'a" (DM woman making object pot/The woman is making a pot). Predicate Adjectives (PA) are the same in Oob No'ok, as Akimel O'otham: "Eg ko'adaga si keega-d!" (DM food really good PA/The food is really good!).

This month's word match will challenge you to remember a few phrases in Oob No'ok. Although we are separated by hundreds of miles, our families of Uto-Aztecan languages are still spoken on both sides of the International Border. We encourage you to speak Akimel O'otham in your everyday lives. Continue to speak and learn from our Elders and Speakers.

A special Thank You to Pimas de México, whose shared knowledge of Oob No'ok that made this article possible. Additional source related from, An Overview of Uto-Aztecan Grammar, Ronald Langacker, University of Texas at Arlington, 1977. Answers of Page 9.

ASU Lecture Series Highlights GRIC History and Culture with Tribal Education Department

Arizona State University's American Indian Student Support Services (AISSS) has partnered with the Gila River Indian Community Tribal Education Department (TED) to provide a month-long virtual lecture series for ASU students. During March, lectures are concentrating on Akimel O'otham and Pee Posh history and culture. This new initiative will enrich AISSS programming for students by allowing surrounding tribal communities to share their history and culture as they see fit.

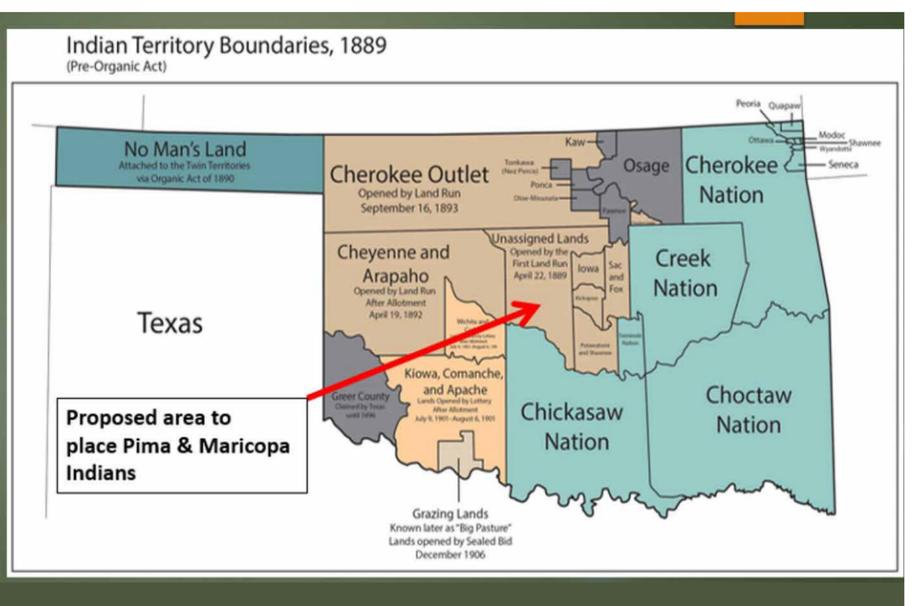

The first lecture on March 4 covered the history of GRIC under Spanish and American control and the establishment of its present-day land base. Also this month, they will cover topics such as "Vaila" Social Dance Music, Gila River Indian Community Water Rights and History, and Mountains and Waterways.

"A lot of our AISSS students are from other states or not from around here and aren't familiar with the neighboring tribes or whose land they're on, so I thought it would be good to educate them in those areas," said Danya Hinton (White Mountain Apache Tribe), AISSS Student Success and Retention Coordinator.

AISSS will follow a similar model for other tribes throughout the state in the future. But Hinton's primary focus is on the nearest neighbors of ASU, including the Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community, Pascua Yaqui Tribe, and Ft. McDowell Yavapai Nation.

Intended for Native American students at ASU, TED's Culture and Language program manager Anthony Gray designed the series for non-GRIC members in mind. He says this will help address some common misconceptions about GRIC by students attending ASU from out of state. For example, he said, "One of the most common questions we always get is, 'Do you live in teepees?'" Gray hopes to educate attendees while addressing similarities and differences among Arizona tribes.

Also driving this effort is enhancing AISSS's official "land acknowledgment," which recognizes ASU's campus locations as the original ancestral homelands of the Akimel O'otham and Pee Posh. Land acknowledgments are becoming more commonplace and are shared aloud in public gatherings and at broader school functions.

However, a land acknowledgment doesn't explain who the Akimel O'otham and Pee Posh are. By providing this information in the lectures, Hinton and Gray hope everyone attending will become familiar with the history and significance of the names associated with ASU's land acknowledgment.

"I'm really excited to have this partnership on this scale with ASU and to bring awareness to our history and identity and look forward to celebrating that with everyone this month," said Gray.

At the conclusion of the series, AISSS will host an O'otham social dance celebration at the ASU Tempe campus Wednesday, March 30. This will be the only in-person activity and will showcase O'otham songs to mark the end of AISSS's first lecture series.

For more information on attending the last lecture, titled "Mountains and Waterways," email Danya Hinton at dhinton2@asu.edu.

Claiming the 2021 Child Tax Credit

When You Don't Normally File a Tax Return

If you don't normally file a tax return, but you're eligible for the Child Tax Credit, you can still claim the Child Tax Credit on a 2021 tax return – even if you had no income in 2021. Advance payments sent in 2021 were not the full amount of the credit.

The 2021 Child Tax Credit is $3,600 for each qualifying child under age 6 and $3,000 for each child age 6 to 17.

Learn more at 2021 Child Tax Credit Frequently Asked Questions.

IRS Free File is a great electronic option for people who are only filing a tax return to claim the Child Tax Credit.

The most secure and fastest way to get a tax refund, which would include your Child Tax Credit, is to combine electronic filing with direct deposit.

The IRS's Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) program offers free basic tax return preparation to qualified individuals.

How to be a Good Septic Owner

Helpful Tips:

- Have tank pumped annually
- Be aware of location of Septic System to avoid driving over it and placing livestock over treatment field.
- Be mindful not to flush items down the toilet that shouldn't go into the Septic tank. (i.e. disposable wipes and large amounts of toilet paper)
- Oils, grease, chemicals and medications should not be flushed.
- Repair leaks in home (faucets, toilets and any other plumbing issues.)
- The number of people in the household will also affect the maintenance of your system.
